1. Why do people have such a hard time asking for help?

2. Who's the person you call when something breaks or goes wrong, and why them?

3. The big idea was "When we see Jesus clearly, we cry out to him desperately." What keeps people from seeing Jesus clearly today?

4. Jesus already knew what Bartimaeus wanted, but still asked, "What do you want me to do for you?" Why does God want us to ask, even when he already knows?

5. Mercy was described as "the compassion of a powerful God, stooping to help those who don't deserve it." What are we admitting when we ask God for mercy?

6. Who do you know that's in a desperate place right now, and how could you cry out for mercy on their behalf this week?

7. Where are you tempted to believe God is holding out on you?
